McAdoo Got Only $150,000

Doheny Writes, After Looking Over Books, That He Made a $100,000 Misstatement.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Feb. 7.—E. L. Doheny, multi-millionaire oil operator, today advised the senate public lands committee that he had made an error in testifying that he paid former Secretary of the Treasury William G. McAdoo $250,000 for his services in oil litigation since the latter's retirement from the cabinet.

In a letter to Chairman Lenroot of the committee, Doheny said that an examination of his books showed that McAdoo had received $150,000, $100,000 less than the original figure.

West Setting Up Communications

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Chicago, Feb. 7.—The mid-west today struggled to re-establish its regular channels of communication after three days of uncertain telegraph and no telephone service. Men working on schedules that embraced 24 hours of the day, had set up lines to the east and a few to the northwest, west and southwest.

Thousands of poles were carried down by sled and ice laden wires in the snow and piled drifts blizzard high to impede the work of restoring communication. Trans-continental trains, hours late because of snow piled tracks, today were getting back toward regular schedules.

Radio stepped into the breach left by failure of the regular lines of news communication. Westinghouse station K. Y. W., the World Crier, cooperating with International News Service, broadcasted news gathered in the same fashion and over the commercial lines first re-established.

Newspapers in Minnesota, Wisconsin, Indiana, Illinois and Iowa that were without other sources of outside news, were supplied with International News Service reports in regular calls every half hour by the World Crier.

Coolidge on First Ballot

At Cleveland Convention, Say His Managers—Claim 800 Delegates Pledged, 311 More Than Necessary.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Feb. 7.—President Coolidge's campaign managers openly claimed today that the president will be nominated at Cleveland on the first ballot.

They declared that $66 of the 1,109 delegates in the convention are already "sowed up" for Coolidge. This number is 311 votes more than the 555 necessary to nominate.

A survey made by the White House official who would not allow the use of his name but is very prominent in President Coolidge's campaign, discloses only ten states which cannot safely be counted "to vote for Coolidge only nominated." These states are Arizona, Arkansas, California, Illinois, Indiana, Maryland, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada and Wisconsin.

"Even some of these states are expected to throw their strength to Mr. Coolidge," it was declared, "but no claims are being laid to them because of primaries, yet to be held, and certain political factors which need smoothing over."

Primaries are to be held in 19 states between now and next June. Of these, 12—Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Vermont, West Virginia, North Carolina—are held in the Coolidge backers, while the remaining seven—California, Illinois, Indiana, Maryland, Montana, Nebraska and Wisconsin—are held in doubt.

"In New England, of course, there is no opposition to President Coolidge's candidacy," the White House official continued. "Then, there is to be taken into consideration the fact that 26 states and the five territories have endorsed him, through their state committees—and in a few instances already through their state conventions."

New York's delegation will be almost entirely for Coolidge. In Georgia and Mississippi there are two warring factions, but both are for the president. Alabama, Kentucky and Virginia have endorsed and instructed their delegates.

"All in all, we look for one of the greatest landslide ever witnessed in a national convention."

Assurance that another Coolidge manager will be present on the floor of the convention actually directing the balloting was given on Tuesday when the Virginia state convention, meeting at Roanoke, selected its delegates and headed them with C. Bascom Slemp, the president's secretary. Slemp received the news with gratification and pointed to the fact that never in the last 20 years has so little difficulty been experienced in forming the Virginia delegation.

It is known that while there he gathered a quantity of material which he put into a book form after his return to civil life. He writes under the name of "Sapper" and in "Bulldog Drummond" it is understood he has given a production packed with thrills.

BROOKLYN POLICE DIDN'T GET SHORT HAIRED BANDIT

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Feb. 7.—Brooklyn's much hunted bobbed haired girl bandit staged another hold-up today. Accompanied by three armed male companions, she drove up to the drug store of Benjamin Jospey, and while she waited in the machine, the motor of which was kept running, her confederates entered the place and got away with $199.

Jospey was covered by guns and did not dare make a move.

The holdup was not a surprise to Jospey. The girl had robbed him before. When she held up his store on January 13 last, taking $150, she warned him:

"I'll be back soon for a little more of your coin."

After the girl and her companions dashed away in their big machine, Jospey, who fails to appreciate the young woman's enterprise, spoke feelingly of lack of police protection.

The police, who arrested two bobbed haired young women yesterday as suspects, admitted today they did not get the right girl.

Blockade at Eighth Sale

Doors Had to Be Closed Until Crowds Could Be Taken Care of—Special Police on Lookout for Shoplifters.

It seemed as if the world and his wife, especially his wife, were at the closing out sale at the Eighth store on lower Broadway Wednesday, and finally the crowds became so dense that it was necessary to close the doors until they could be waited on.

Also, it was found that the crowd was not free from shoplifters and two special policemen were employed to watch for such persons. They will be on duty again today and until the sale ends, which will not be until all goods in stock have been sold.

This sale is being conducted to close up the affairs of the estate of the late Sherman E. Eighmey and persons skilled in such things say that from a survey of the heaped up counters and the price tags thereon, some of the best bargains ever offered in Kingston are to be had.

NEIGHBOR URGES THAT DICKSON MAKE CONFESSION

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Bridgeport, N. J., Feb. 7.—Thompson Dickson, farmer, of Millville, accused of the murder of his 16 year old daughter, Emma, is losing his self control and he may talk any time, police say today. He has, however, stoutly refused to make any admissions.

The girl's grandfather, "Uncle Benny" Dickson, laid the slaying at the door of his son.

The accused man today received a letter from Mrs. Jennie Henderson, a neighbor and friend of the family, who, up to this time, had defended Dickson. The letter said in part:

Toxin Proves of Higher Value

Diphtheria Preventive, Given First Big Test at East Kingston, Acts Almost Immediately—Now But 10 Cases.

The diphtheria epidemic at East Kingston is gradually subsiding. At the present time there are ten cases in six families under quarantine, and eight carriers. There have been no deaths so far this year.

This is the first time that toxin anti-toxin has been used to control an epidemic of diphtheria in this state. At East Kingston there have been about 370 children immunized. In no case has an immunized child had more than an extremely mild attack. It will be remembered that toxin anti-toxin has heretofore been supposed to protect only after a lapse of several months. At East Kingston it has been clearly demonstrated that considerable protection is afforded early, according to Dr. Laidlaw, of the state department of health, in charge of the East Kingston epidemic.

Since the outbreak last year there have been fifty cases and two deaths.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Fall, former secretary of the interior and a central figure in the oil lease scandal, today was released from further appearances before the senate public lands committee to testify concerning the turning over of naval reserves in Wyoming and California to Harry F. The committee decided in an executive session that if Fall was compelled to testify with respect to the oil leases and the $25,000 and $100,000 loans he received from Sinclair and Doheny, such testimony might operate to gain immunity for him in the event of criminal action in connection with the recovery of the oil lands by the government.

A formal opinion was rendered to the committee by the special counsel, Silas H. Strawn, and Allee Pomerehne, advising this course.

Applying for a Dissolution

Hearing in Matter of D. H. Starr & Son, Inc., of Highland, on March 17.

In the matter of the application of D. H. Starr & Son, Inc., of Highland, for voluntary dissolution, in which Judge Hasbrouck on Saturday appointed DeWitt W. Ostrander of Clintondale referee to take proof, and appointed John P. Whitley of Highland temporary receiver, papers on file in the Ulster county clerk's office, on which the appointments were made by Judge Hasbrouck, set forth the financial condition of the company.

The company was organized to manufacture wagon and automobile haws and fellows and bent wood articles, with a capital of $50,000, consisting of equal amounts of common and preferred stock. The common stock is owned by Daniel H. Starr of Highland, who holds 210 shares; Eva L. Starr of Highland, who holds 29 shares; and Edward H. Starr of San Antonio, Texas, who holds 29 shares. The preferred stock is owned entirely in Highland, in amounts ranging from one to ten shares.

The petition for appointment of a receiver was made by Daniel H. Starr, James W. Feeter and John P. Business operations have been suspended and nobody is now employed by the company.

Claims listed in papers accompanying the application show that the majority of claims are for lumber and other materials. The creditors are scattered through Delaware county, the Catskill and Shawangunk Mountain regions and Southern Ulster, and there are also creditors in the village of Highland, for borrowed money.

Claims listed total $25,765.53. The inventory value of stock is $3,500; accounts receivable amount to $2,500; notes receivable are for $245.63; the real estate, including building, cost $28,269.22 and its appraised value is $17,000; furniture and fixtures are valued at $119.15, and tools, etc., at $139.76.

PATH TO FIGHT THE RAT CAUSES ENORMOUS LOSS

Few other animals or insects are so dangerous and persistent an enemy, or inflict so much damage upon humanity, as the common brown or gray rat. He destroys and injures vast quantities of grain, destroys young chicks, fruits, vegetables and flowers. He causes enormous losses in warehouses and freight terminals, is a menace both in cities and farm districts.

The United States department of agriculture places the value of food and property destroyed yearly by each rat at $2. As the rat population easily equals the human population, the loss due to rats in this country alone, averages over $200,000,000 annually.

A frequenter of all places filthy and loathsome, the rat is also a constant menace to public health. He is a most efficient germ carrier; is not one bit particular where he places his disease-contaminated foot or snout. The germs of the dreaded "black death," which have killed more human beings than all wars in the world's history, may be introduced into the human system by the bite of the rat flea. The bubonic plague, typhus and other terrible diseases are directly traceable to the rat.

Thus from the standpoint of public health as well as from the necessity of preventing heavy drains upon the public purse, it pays to fight the rat.

DESCRIBES 30 YEARS OF FARM WORK IN ALASKA

Experiments With Plants and Animals Show Agricultural Possibilities of Territory.

Growing interest in Alaska as long ago as 1897 led congress to make an appropriation for experimental work in agriculture in that territory. An account of this work since then and up to the present date is included in a report just issued by the director of the states relations service of the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington covering the past 30 years.

A station was established, says the report, at Sitka and subsidiary stations have since been maintained at Kodiak (transferred to Kodiak in 1908), Copper Center (transferred to Fairbanks in 1908), Rampart, Fairbanks, Matanuska, and on Kodiak Island. C. C. George, who has been in immediate charge of all the Alaska work since the beginning, and Walter H. Evans, who joined the Washington force of the office of experiment stations in 1902, has represented this office in general supervision of this enterprise.

Through extensive travel of station officers, reports by settlers on their use of seeds distributed by the stations and on their other agricultural operations, and a large amount of experimental work with plants and animals, great progress has been made in determining the agricultural possibilities of this vast territory. Much has also been done in selecting and breeding varieties of plants adapted to the soil and climate conditions in different parts of Alaska. Experiments with animals have also shown much regarding their breeding, care, and management as related to Alaskan conditions. It has been demonstrated that wheat, oats, barley, potatoes, and many kinds of vegetables of good quality can be grown in different parts of the territory. Numerous gardens in many places now regularly furnish settlers goodly contributions to their food supply and a considerable number of farmers and horticulturists are carrying on larger agricultural operations. A basis has thus been laid by the station work for considerable agriculture in Alaska when the growth of mining, lumbering, and other industries encourages a sufficiently large influx of farming people.

First Woman Admitted to the Bar in Germany

Miss Otto, who is a native of the city of Wurzburg, Bavaria, has studied law at the universities of Wurzburg, Leipzig, Berlin and Munich, where she got her degree. She is also a graduate of the Munich Commercial college, and has for the last four years been practicing with a well-known Munich solicitors firm.

Farm Organizations Do $2,000,000,000 Business

Marketing organizations of farmers did more than $2,000,000,000 worth of business last year.

Reports to the Department of Agriculture at Washington from 2,600 grain organizations show business totaling $490,000,000; 1,841 dairy products organizations, $300,000,000; 1,182 live stock shipping associations, $220,000,000; 955 fruit and vegetable associations, $280,000,000; 78 cotton co-operatives, $100,000,000, and 14 tobacco organizations, $182,000,000.

Only 8,313 of the 10,300 organizations have reported, of which 90 per cent were primarily engaged in selling farm products and 10 per cent in collective purchasing of farm supplies.

Girls to Whistle for Police When Molested

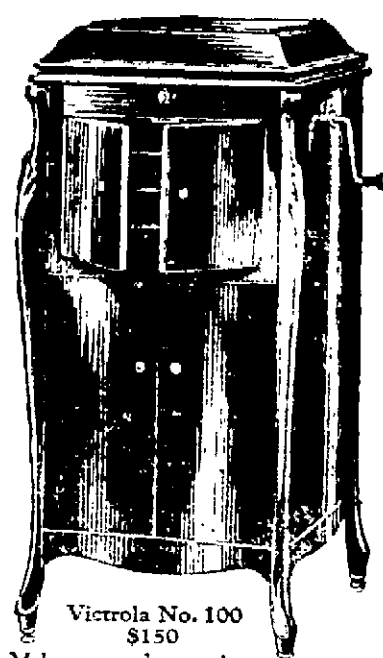

Whistling for a policeman may become the chief form of protection of women against criminals. A private detective of Los Angeles has invented a whistle for women to carry, which, he asserts, if used properly, will be greater aid in eliminating crime than if citizens carried guns.

He has demonstrated his plan, and hopes to standardize the signal so that it will be known throughout the country as the official call for help. Companies will be asked to provide their employees with them and give instructions in their use.

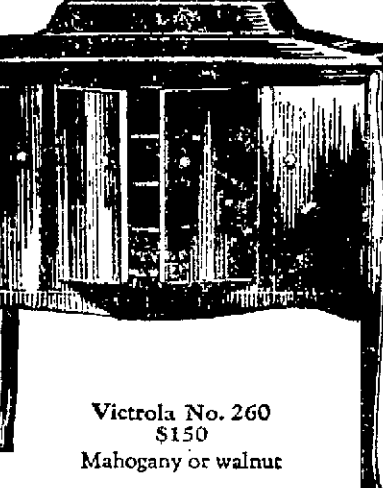

First Big Game Movies

The late Paul J. Rainey, the explorer, was the first man to get moving pictures of big game hunts in Africa. Also, he stalked lions in Africa for the first time with Mississippi bear hounds or Alfreddes.

New Three-Piece Suit In Velvet Embroidered

The tailor is more fanciful this winter. This new Paris design in a three-piece suit is of black velvet embroidered in native blue wool and gold with elaborately plaited collar and cuffs.

Things to Know About Cleaning Velvet Gown

So much velvet is being worn these days that it is very convenient to know how to clean and care for it, so that it will give the maximum amount of wear. Because of the soft nap, writes a correspondent, velvet requires an extra amount of attention to keep it looking well. The nap must be kept raised and clean to show its beauty.

If the velvet should become spotted by the rain, steam the whole surface to make the shade the same. Do not brush the velvet before steaming as that will make the nap cling together. Never brush the surface of velvet until it is dry. Stains may be removed from velvet by sponging with alcohol. There are special methods for removing specific stains, as grease and paint. This is done by the application of dry cleaner and sponging with benzine or turpentine.

Much depends on the brushing of velvet. Use a piece of the material itself or a brush that has soft elastic bristles. The bristles are better not too soft if the material needs to be cleaned, as they will bring the dust to the surface. In brushing to clean, push the bristles into the nap and twist both the cloth and the brush. This will bring the dust out of the nap and it can easily be shaken from the velvet by beating from the wrong side. Do this over every spot of the garment or material to be cleaned.

To freshen the appearance of velvet, sponge the wrong side with warm water and then draw gently back and forth over a hot iron. If there are deep wrinkles they may be removed by first holding the material over a pan of boiling hot water and brushing the nap with a very stiff brush. The steam that comes through the nap of the velvet will raise it. After rubbing the wrong side over the hot iron be careful not to disturb the nap on the right side until it is perfectly dry. Seams are pressed in the same way.

Brilliant Decorations for Women's Headdress

The formal occasions of the social season have made evident that head-dress is again in vogue. With the new styles, extremes, from the Madonna to the Cupid, it takes a woman of much moral courage to wear the conventional crownlike tiara. The styles are as new and as many as the modes of dressing the hair.

An enchanting bit is a spray of silver-dusted leaves that holds the back of the hair from ear to ear. Another crosses the forehead, ending at the ears, over each of which is a long bunch of silver grapes that almost touches the shoulder. This is one of the extreme designs that express Oriental influence.

A head ornament of pearls on a cap-like frame of openwork covers the head completely, with ornaments curving over the cheeks. The eccentric fancy is decidedly Egyptian. Pretty, delicate bands of brilliant, colored stones or finely wrought designs in gold are becoming and popular.

May Be Aid to Girls Who Have Wispy Locks

Have you the sort of hair that at its very best is as like a last year's bird's nest, and your constant despair on all occasions when you want to keep neat and well-groomed? Such heaps of girls suffer from this sort of hair, and it's so expensive always to keep it well waved and curled that a word of hope to sufferers such as these may not be out of place.

Wispy hair, if it's not bobbed, had far better be plaited close to the face and rolled down over each ear—a method which effectually gets rid of short ends. It's bobbed, on the other hand, it's a tip to remember that one can have the ends permanently turned round and under, without any other permanent waving being done to the hair, at about an eighth the cost of the whole process.—Young Ladies' Journal.

THE SPIRIT OF GRIFFIS.

On last Armistice Day as he sat in his German prison cell, to which he was sentenced for participation in the attempt to kidnap Grover Bergdoll, German American draft evader, at Eberbach last summer, Corliss Hooven Griffis wrote to his mother in America:

How time does change things! It was just a year ago at this hour that Captain Cowley Carroll and myself went out to the cemetery where we held our little service for our dead. Amid the quiet graves of Greenwood that day I had little thought, indeed, that another such day would find me in a German prison. But even had I known, please God, I would not falter from a trust, a heritage of brave fellow countrymen.

The prisoner's patriotic spirit had not faded him, although he did not know that his fellow countrymen were coming to his aid in the form of a monster petition 23 miles long, bearing 2,700,000 names—more than there were soldiers in the A. E. F.—which, wound on a great wheel, was presented to the German ambassador at Washington by a senator, several congressmen and a score of World War veterans. The violation of German law was admitted and the release of Griffis was asked as an act of clemency likely to bring about better feeling between the two countries.

This was the consideration that brought the results, for now, after taking note of "the sentiment of the United States," and no doubt shrewdly counting on the effect of its action in America, the Berlin government has granted the petition. On January 20 Corliss Griffis, to his great surprise, was told by his jailers that he could pack up his belongings and go where he wished. Griffis is free and on his way home, no doubt just as sure as he was on last Armistice Day that his act was inspired by patriotism.

ANOTHER CAUSE OF CRIME?

The District Attorney of Altoona, Pa., has urgently requested the clergy of that neighborhood to return to the old-time policy of warning sinners of the punishment awaiting them in the world to come while exhorting them to repentance and reform. The once common and salutary practice has lapsed, he complains, and he asserts that for ten years he has heard hardly a mention of after-death punishments in any of the churches he has attended. He seems to think that the clergy there, as elsewhere, are now more interested in social reform and political questions of the hour than in the eternal salvation of their congregations.

Herein he finds still another cause of "crime waves" and contempt of law, one that has latterly been overlooked or received little attention. Prohibitionists attribute the alarming increase of crime to bootlegging and illicit liquor. Anti-prohibitionists attribute it to popular revolt against official invasion of the people's freedom and private rights. But Altoona's District Attorney seems inclined to attribute it largely to neglect of duty on the part of our modern clergy. Certainly there is basis for his argument that many men are let loose from restraint by the removal of the fear of punishment in the life to come. Where this fear does not exist many men will be more readily tempted to believe that they can escape punishment in this world also, as indeed they too often do.

After talking for months about what the farmers of the Northwest wanted, and predicting what would happen if they did not get it, nine Senatorial members of the farm block now turn around and ask their agricultural constituents to say just what they do want. Presumably the Senators are winded and it is now up to the farmers.

It is surprising that, in spite of the little skating permitted by our mild winters, an American won against Sweden, Norwegians and Finns in the first contest in the Olympic games of 1924.

We read that the vast increase of automobiles has brought no corresponding decrease of horses. In ten years the number of horses has decreased about a million and a half, the chief decrease being in the cities. The decrease in the rural districts is very small.

It now appears that Ambassador Kellogg found evening dress in the morning too startling and hereafter whatever the west may say will go to the King's court in "knee pants," like the other diplomats, in order not to be so painfully conspicuous.

It seems that the Teapot Dome navy oil field in Wyoming takes its name from a nearby mountain with a top that has a more or less remote resemblance to a teapot.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act.)

WHAT IS BEHIND RHEUMATISM?

You may remember some years ago when all cases of rheumatism were supposed to be caused by getting a severe cold, or due to prolonged exposure to dampness and cold.

Then a little later it was supposed to be due to uric acid in the blood, and so huge and regular doses of epsom salts were given.

Loan meat was blamed for the formation of this uric acid, and so those sufferers were denied all meats.

Later on again the tonsils were blamed for the trouble and tonsils were removed in wholesale manner.

Then later came the teeth, infection about the roots of which were blamed for causing rheumatism.

Then more recently the sinuses—the little hollow spaces in the bones of the cheek and forehead which connect with the nose.

And then the intestine with unremoved waste products came into disrepute as the cause.

And finally a germ was found by a celebrated Chicago physician and it was considered the cause.

Now what about all this? Well, it would appear that practically any one or all of these things might cause a definite attack of rheumatism, which as you know is an inflammation in the joints. Just as you can have an inflammation anywhere else.

And so each one of these factors may enter in.

The cold and exposure lowers your vitality, and the ever present germ gets busy.

The accumulation of acids in the body may be the factor and so you see the big doses of salts cleared out considerable of this, but did not prevent the manufacture of more.

The removal of the tonsils certainly cleared up thousands of cases, as did likewise the extraction of teeth, and the cleaning up of the gums from pyorrhea.

The draining of the sinuses, the removal of growths in the nose has also done its share. The correction of constipation deserves its share of share of the credit also.

Why do I say all this? That whilst exposure and dampness may apparently cause the attack of rheumatism, there is some place in the body, nose, throat, teeth, sinuses or intestine, that is manufacturing the trouble, and it remains quiet owing to the fighting ability of that body of yours, until the coldness, dampness, exposure, overwork, or worry, lessens that fighting ability and rheumatism, for a time at least, gains the day.

THIS COSTUME HAS

A TOUCH OF PLAID

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

One of the most important reasons for believing that the suit is in line for popular endorsement, is that the tailored suit in its version appears to have "caught on" through its own appeal. Something in the way of cursory canvass was made among a gathering of young women who are average and typical in their observation of the mode and who have been for the most part "dress wearers."

The expression of favor for the new boyish tailored two-piece suit was unanimous, with everyone of girlish type declaring her intention of "investing" in one for spring. From a woman of more mature figure, the statement was obtained, that only her realization of the style not being adapted to her figure restrained her from buying one. She, however, is planning to have a tailored suit, inclining more to the sports type.

Albany, Feb. 7.—Next week Governor Smith is expected to submit a special message on grade crossing to the legislature. This will clean up all the special messages the governor promised to submit to the lawmakers.

It is not uncommon to hear young women who have been firm in their belief that they were not a "tailored suit type" after this opinion following the first displays of the new type.

Practically everyone acknowledges a definite faith in the revival of suit interest for spring and every collection thus far viewed, focuses chief attention upon the tailored productions.

One couture house whose name is synonymous with style, selected a suit of the boyish tailored order from a great collection of novelties of both tailored and softer conception and is concentrating on it.

Here the appeal of the new suit is explained in part by the fitted lines chiefly, implying as it does, a closer kinship to the custom tailored suit.

The particular feature of the suit typifying the mode is its curved fit and square shoulders, all conducive to a tapered waistline effect.

One of the important qualities of the new tailormade is that it retains a feminine identity. There is a far cry from the "mannish" character to the "boyish" in the tailored suit.

The chief difference is that, while the mannish term conveys a feeling of objectionable masculinity in a woman's garb, fostered by broad lines, heavy accessories and a general imitating of wearing men's clothes, the boyish description designates the type that is merely borrowed, preserving altogether the feminine appeal.

Not a little of the charm of the new tailormade is gleaned from the accessories that are launched importantly with the mode.

MAY BE YOUNGEST MEMBER OF LEGION

Who is the youngest member of the American Legion? Just at this time, Jefferson post of the organization in Louisville, Ky., lays claim to that distinction, in announcing that F. Strother Barton is a member of the post.

Barton was born April 3, 1902, and when the Marine Corps issued a call for buglers in 1916, he attempted to enlist. He was unable to meet the requirements for age, though he passed all others successfully. Denied his parents' consent to enter service, as he was but fourteen at the time, he hid his time and enlisted in the navy in 1916.

He was sent to Charleston, S. C., for training in naval aviation, from there he was sent to Hampton Roads, Va. Barton was discharged in 1919, and soon after "hooked up" with the Legion in Louisville.

One brother, Lieut. Frank R. Barton, served two years in the air service, was awarded the Croix de Guerre, and received special citations for bravery in the Arconne and other engagements.

F. Strother Barton.

Another brother, William H. Barton was a member of the Tank Corps, serving with those forces in the Somme offensive.

The young man is now twenty-one, but the department of Kentucky believes that in him they have the youngest Legionnaire in the whole organization.

Arkansas Legion to Aid of City Schools

Broadening the scope of the community service program, members of the American Legion auxiliary in Little Rock, Ark., are co-operating with Affiliated School Improvement Association to bring about better school conditions in that city.

Because school funds were low, the authorities made a ten per cent reduction in teachers' salaries and planned to close the schools earlier in the year. Not daunted by the action, women workers of the Legion and persons interested in the city's schools, raised funds with which to complete a thirty-nine-week term and pay the teachers the full salary provided for in the contracts. Members of the M. M. Ebert unit of the American Legion auxiliary and department officials of the organization joined in the allied movement.

New Post in Honduras

Far off in Honduras, thirty World War veterans have heard the call of the American Legion and have formed the Legion's newest foreign post. The men, practically all of whom are in the employ of the Truxillo Railroad company sent in an application for a post charter which was granted, making the new post the first foreign unit to be chartered in the new year. It is located at Puerto Castilla, Honduras and Willard Beaulieu, vice consul for the United States at that station, has been named post commander.

Would Increase Police Pay

Increase of pay for members of the Chicago police department was sought by a number of organizations in that city, but none were more ardent in support of the demand of the police than members of Commodore Barry post of the American Legion. A letter to city officials from the post supported the request for increase of pay to $2,500 per year, on the grounds that the members of the department were not receiving a wage commensurate with their work or living expenses.

POLISH PATRIOT WRITES OF VISIT

Impressed by the great industrial development, the co-operation in civic life, and the boundless good fellowship in America, Gen. Joseph Haller, noted Polish patriot who was the guest of the American Legion while in the United States, has returned to his native land.

In a letter to National Commander John R. Quinn of the Legion, the great Polish warrior said that his pleasure in his visit was unbounded, and was an experience that he would always recall because of the association with his former comrades of the World War who had fought under the American flag.

General Haller's visit began early in October and continued until a few days before Christmas. His tour started with a visit to the White House and a visit to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington, across the continent to San Francisco, where he received highest honors at the hands of the American Legion. As the official guest of the organization, he was presented with the American Legion's Distinguished Service Medal, worn only by two Americans and by but four others—Marshall Foch of France, Admiral Beatty of England, General Jacques of Belgium, General Diaz of Italy.

Back across the nation with a party of representative Legion men, sped the great Polish patriot, to visit nearly fifty of America's greatest cities, where he was greeted by members of that organization, Polish colonies and many officials, statesmen and prominent persons.

Before his departure, General Haller expressed his deep satisfaction at the outcome of the visit, and deeply thanked the American Legion for the opportunity to see the nation. He said in his letter:

"What has given me the greatest pleasure has been the evidence on every hand that the American soldier who really gave up his peaceful pursuits to don the uniform of his proud country and help put down oppression in Europe so quickly returned to the following the calling of the armistice. I have noted the happy homes, the contentment and the prosperity of those liberty-loving and unwarlike lands. It has been a constant inspiration to me. The officers of the many Legion posts, the officials of the organization are all enshrined in my heart."

Him, Too

In a state of considerable excitement, the circus manager rushed up to Sam, the colored canvasman.

"We need a little help, Sam," he cried. "Four lions have escaped from cage five."

"Scaped?" ejaculated Sam. "Hoi dis hammer, boss. Dat's jes' zactly what Ah's gwine to do!" —American Legion Weekly.

Britisher Anxious to Be Legion Member

Arnold Hall, a veteran of the British Royal engineers, who served on every British battle front from Mons to the Dardanelles, is looking forward to acceptance of his application by the American Legion. Hall was one of the first to learn of the new ruling made by the Legion at the fifth annual convention, which permits those who served with allied armies who were at the time citizens of the United States, or later became naturalized, to affiliate with the Legion.

Hall is a resident of Minneapolis, and applied for naturalization papers following his arrival in that city in January, 1923. His next step was to make application for Legion membership, but was told that he would be forced to wait until completion of naturalization requirements. He declares that every American World War veteran should avail himself of the opportunity to affiliate with the Legion.

Canada Would Have Legion Convention

Montreal seeks to entertain a national convention of the American Legion, according to an invitation sent to national headquarters of the veterans' organization through Legion officials in Canada.

The invitation was extended by Mayor Martin of Montreal, who declared that the entertainment of the former comrades of the British soldiers would give great pleasure to citizens of his country, as well as affording a means for more closely linking the people of the two nations.

The invitation was not received in time for consideration, however, as the Legion convention for 1924 had already been authorized for St. Paul, Victoria, B. C., another Canadian city. Invited the veteran's organization to come there in 1924, this invitation being extended during the fifth national convention at San Francisco.

Would "Show" Them

Clarence R. Edwards, leader of the Yankee division in the World War, and now leading his former soldiers as department commander of the American Legion in Massachusetts, says that the Legion can become the finest body of men in America.

General Edwards, under whose guidance Legion interest has reached a high tide in his state, appealed to his comrades with the words: "Just as soon as you show the non-Legionnaire men who are now entitled—that the purpose of the organization is to be behind everything fine in civic life in every town and city, just so soon will you have the endorsement and backing of all your fellow citizens."

BREAK A CHEST COLD WITH HEAT OF RED PEPPERS

Ease your tight, aching chest. Stop the pain. Break up the congestion. Feel a hot cold loosen up in just a short time.

"Red Pepper Rub" is the cold remedy that brings quickest relief. It cannot hurt you and it certainly seems to end the tightness and drive the congestion and soreness right out.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers, and when heat penetrates right down into colds, congestion, aching muscles and sore, stiff joints relief comes at once.

The moment you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes the congested spot is warmed through and through. When you are suffering from a cold, rheumatism, backache, stiff neck or sore muscles, just get a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, at any drug store. You will have the quickest relief known. Always say "Rowles."

What Half-Cent Will Buy.

In the Malay market every seller divides his or her wares into portions costing half a cent—in American money. For this sum one can purchase a handful of red peppers, or a handful of rich nut kernels, or a big cucumber, or a pound for cooking, or two or three large bananas, or five or six small ones, writes Beatrice Grimshaw in the Wide World Magazine. It will also buy a little saucerful of peanuts; a cake of yeast bread as large as a biscuit; a cake of sago bread the size of a sheet of newspaper; a big bunch of "greens," a large slice of raw fish; a little bowl of hot tea; a portion of ready-made curry stuff, intensely hot and spicy; a good saucerful of rice; a dozen peeled chunks of sugar cane; three or four crisp banana fritters; or two large slices of bread-roll. There is no end, in short, to what this little copper coin can buy. As for fruit, the market teems with it, and with vegetables of the gourd, potato and cabbage family.

Five Important Canals.

Suez canal cuts through the Isthmus of Suez and connects the Mediterranean with the Red sea, and is about 100 miles long. Panama canal cuts through the Isthmus of Panama from Colon on the Caribbean sea to the Bay of Panama on the Pacific ocean, and is about 49 miles long. Manchester Ship canal is about 35.5 miles long, runs from the Mersey at Eastham, just above Liverpool, to Manchester. Kiel canal runs from Holtenau on the Baltic to Brunsbittel on the Elbe, and is about 60 miles long. Cape Cod canal, excavated across Cape Cod, connecting Buzzard's bay with Barnstable bay at Sandwich, Mass., is eight miles long.

Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.

Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.

Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness.

To Mothers: Musterole is now made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole. 35c and 65c, in jars and tubes.

Westcott Talks About Bonus

Tells Hundreds of Inquirers He Can Give No Details as to Payment Until Law Is Enacted by Legislature.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, Feb. 7.—Adjutant General Edward J. Westcott, through whose department pending legislation proposes to administer the soldiers' bonus fund, stated today that he was unable at present to make definite reply to the hundreds of inquiries which have come to him from the various veteran organizations regarding what assistance they can offer in helping pay the bonus. The legislation provides that a commission to be composed of Adjutant General Westcott, Attorney General Carl Sherman, State Treasurer George K. Shuler and Comptroller James W. Fleming shall have charge of the bonus distribution. Obviously, until the legislation is enacted into law, the commission will not meet, but as there seems to be no objection to the pending bill preparations to facilitate the handling of the bonus are under way. Adjutant General Westcott said that in conversation with other members of the proposed commission he had learned that there was an unanimity of opinion with reference to the part that the veteran organizations, Red Cross and other war relief societies should perform. The consensus was that the cooperation and interest of every post was most desirable for the acceleration of the bonus work, and that no post need hesitate even now to send to the adjutant general's office such information as it has available, and later what it intends to collect.

On the question of when the bonus is likely to be paid, General Westcott pointed out that a prediction would have to be so very indefinite as to make it virtually worthless. A great deal of preliminary work is necessary, and the comptroller will no doubt desire to offer the bonds in a favorable market. The assurance is given, however, that every possible effort will be made to avoid delay, and that the first payments will go out as soon as the law and the general order of business will permit.

Rosendale, Feb. 6.—At the recent regents' examinations held in this village, Miss Helen R. White, the principal of this school, had four graduates besides a number of pupils who passed in one or more subjects.

John Darrow, who has been boarding with Miss Caroline Anderson for the past three years, has gone to New York, where he will hereafter reside with his mother.

Harry Getman has entered Kingston High School. He was one of the boys who passed the last regents' test.

Mrs. Charles Ten Hagen and Mrs. Harry Ten Hagen and baby Donald spent Wednesday with Mrs. J. A. Lay in Kingston.

William G. Quinn, who was buried in St. Peter's cemetery on Thursday last, was a resident of this village a number of years and had a host of friends here, who were shocked to hear of his death. All extend heart felt sympathy to his family.

The domino party held at the home of Mrs. Harry Wesp on Thursday afternoon last was well attended and all report a fine time. Mrs. Ralph LePore won the first prize and Mrs. Howard Stearns won the consolation prize.

Mrs. Henry Moore of Livingston, Columbia County, came on Saturday to attend the funeral of Dr. C. V. Hasbrouck.

Lloyd LeFevre, who is attending school at Troy, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph LeFevre, of this village.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wesp and daughter, Helen, attended a silver wedding anniversary of a friend at Clintondale on Saturday. They returned home on Sunday.

Mrs. Bertha Hasbrouck and Miss Lavonia, were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Van Tassel at Cornwall on the Hudson.

Mrs. Frolich and Mrs. Rush who were here the past week to attend the funeral of Dr. C. V. Hasbrouck returned to their home in Brooklyn on Sunday evening.

In the passing away of Dr. Hasbrouck at his home in this village on Thursday last, this village has sustained a great loss. He has been a faithful doctor for over forty years and in the sick room his kind and pleasant ways won for him a host of warm friends. He was a member of All Saints Church and one of its oldest officers and always there when possible for him to attend. He was president of the school board at the time of his death and always ready to perform his duty when called. The high esteem in which he was held was expressed on Sunday, when the church in which the funeral was held was entirely too small to hold the large crowd of friends who came to pay their last respects.

Federals Move Into Vera Cruz

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Mexico City, Feb. 7.—Now that the Federals have occupied Vera Cruz normal maritime traffic will be restored there immediately. It was announced today.

There are upwards of $5,000,000 in United States imports piled up in Vera Cruz warehouse that accumulated there during the two months the rebels held the port. Also, there are huge quantities of goods from Vera Cruz and Puebla awaiting export.

With the Huasteca revolt in a state of complete collapse, the war department looks for only one more battle this time on the western front.

There is every indication that the chasing of guerrilla bands will engage the occupation of the army for months to come.

General Topete and General Carralero led the Federals that occupied Vera Cruz without firing a shot.

Adolfo De La Huerta, civilian chief of the revolt, who remained in Vera Cruz through the uprising, is a fugitive somewhere along the coast on the rebel gunboat Zaragoza.

General Guadalupe Sanchez, one of the chief military leaders among the revolutionaries, is a fugitive with a handful of men in the dense forested mountains near Orizaba.

So precipitate was the rebel fight that their plans to destroy railways, bridges and tunnels miscarried.

Chicory.

Chicory is quite extensively cultivated in Europe for use as a table salad, for fodder, and for the roots.

The young leaves, when properly blended, are considered equal, as a salad, to those of endive. The principal use of the plant, however, is for its roots, which are roasted and ground and in that form used as a substitute for coffee, or as an adulterant for coffee, snuff and other articles.

Passion Fruit.

Passion fruit has long been popular in Australia for flavoring ice cream and cold drinks, being refreshingly delicious. Here in California the vines have been used in screen buildings, and some few for commercial purposes but it is just recently that the cultivation of the passion vine has been begun on an extensive scale.

Why Clerks Were Happy.

ELLERVILLE.

Ellenville, Feb. 7.—Otto Johnson, Jr., has returned to New York city, after spending several months with his parents in Ellenville.

A Ford truck driven by one of Rose & Douglas's men collided with a Geo speed wagon on Main street in front of the Mitchell House, on Tuesday afternoon. The Ford was badly damaged, but the larger car escaped any serious damages.

An illustrated lecture on North Africa, consisting principally of Tunis, Algeria and Egypt, was given in the Methodist Church last Sunday evening, which was very interesting and instructive.

The "Hoodoo" will be given by the Senior class of the Ellenville High School on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, February 20 and 21, at the high school auditorium.

The Epworth League will be led by E. A. Smiley, on Sunday evening, February 10.

A number of Ellenville people are planning to attend the Boy Scout dinner which is to be given in Kingston on Lincoln's Birthday, February 12.

Otto Johnson returned to his home on Saturday evening, after spending several weeks in New York city, where he underwent an operation. Mrs. Johnson and Miss Margaret Menzel, a friend of the family, accompanied him. Mr. Johnson is much improved but will probably be confined to his home for some time.

Jersey Police vs. Wanderers.

The Jersey City police quintet will play the Ellenville Wanderers at Norbury Hall, Ellenville, Friday evening. Dancing will follow the game.

Narrow Minds.

It is difficult for the good Christian to acknowledge the good pagan; almost impossible for the good orthodox to grasp the mind of the good Unitarian, leading to their Creator to see the matters in dispute; and giving our rational efforts strongly and not to be mistaken. Then, again, though the heart be large, yet the mind is often of such moderate dimensions as to be exclusively filled up with one idea.—Nathaniel Hawthorne.

Forefather of Submarines.

One of the world's best submarine boats, built in 1864, by Messrs. Bushnell & Co. of New Jersey, is now one of the relics on exhibition at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, New York. It had a speed of four knots and was propelled by hand. A crew of 10 men was carried, although it was only 25 feet long and 9 feet high. The cost was $91,000. The first successful submarine vessel was built by David Bushnell in America in 1775.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Basis of Time Reckoning.

The basis of reckoning standard time at the United States Naval Observatory is transit observation of the stars. The observatory has three standard clocks running in a constant temperature vault, electrically wound and sealed to keep the air pressure constant. Meridian circle observations of selected stars are taken regularly on clear nights, and from these observations the errors of the standard clocks are determined and corrected.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

KING LION

King Lion was pacing up and down his cage in the zoo. Most of the animals were asleep, but King Lion was not feeling sleepy as yet. He had had a splendid afternoon nap after his dinner and now he was wide awake. He looked through into the next cage. There were three little cubs—his children.

They looked so gentle and so beautiful! They looked as though they would play and frolic with children and do them no harm. Well, King Lion thought children were all right. They came to the zoo and they admitted him, as wise and sensible children should do. But his children must never have the idea that they could be friendly with boys and girls.

They mustn't get any wrong ideas about who would be fit playmates for them. This zoo life might give them wrong ideas. They didn't know the forests and the jungles as he did.

Then he noticed that little Leo, his son, had opened his sleepy eyes. "Leo," said King Lion, "I have something on my mind which I want to tell you. And tomorrow you tell this to your sister and brother.

"Your father used to live in far-off India. There I hunted and there I roared and there I lived a thrilling, exciting, dangerous life. Here it is very safe, much too safe for a lion, as a matter of fact.

"But just because you are here, where you do not hunt for your food and where you are safe, do not forget that you belong to the family known as the King of the Beasts.

"That is a splendid title. Far better than to be the king of mere people, or to be a president or an emperor.

"You may be playful now, but think wild thoughts, so that when you are older no one will call you gentle.

"Roar! Roar with all your might. Roar so that all will hear your great voice.

"You must speak for yourself in this life. Do you suppose we would always have been known as the King of the Beasts if we hadn't blown our own trumpets a bit?

"The tiger is a wise and, perhaps, more careful hunter. They say he is a more careful hunter, really.

"But he is not called a king, for he doesn't sound so magnificently terrible as we do.

"Growl and roar when you get your dinner. Make believe that it is what you have been able to get yourself through hunting.

"Every time you are given a bone, play with it as though you were capturing it and imagine to yourself that it is what you marketed for yourself.

"Lick your chops as though you were free and wild and the taste of the hunt was still upon them.

"Roar at night so all will know that we have not forgotten the jungle habit of gathering together after the sun goes down.

"You May Be Playful Now."

"For that is one of the good old ways of the jungle—the splendid gathering together of the herd when night falls.

"In five years you will have a full-grown mane, my son, and you will be a King Lion.

"That is something for you to look forward to through the days and the weeks and the months and the years until you have finished five years of your dear lion's life.

"Ah, son, that is something the lady lionesses never have as we do—the splendid long mane.

"That shows our great strength and splendor. At least, if it doesn't exactly show our strength, it shows our splendor, anyway.

"And to look at our manes makes any one feel that we are strong, which we are.

"Good-night, my son, and never forget your father's advice. No one else is going to roar for you. It is up to you to show the zoo that the lion can make such a noise that he must be the King of the Beasts."

King Lion was feeling sleepy himself now.

He took one more look at Leo, his son, and at Leo's sister and brother.

"I'll remember what you have said," Leo answered his father in a sleepy voice, but as he fell off to sleep once more he thought how splendid it was to have a King Lion for a daddy and that he, too, would be a King Lion one day, and he said to himself that he would remember all his father had told him.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

A delicious luncheon dish may be prepared from a white sauce to which hard cooked egg is added; chop the egg fine, pour over well buttered toast and sprinkle with the hard cooked yolk put through a ricer.

For a quick dessert, use canned peaches or pears, heated with sweetened and whipped cream and flavored with almond or vanilla.

For breakfast shred a smoked herring and add to the plain omelet; it adds variety and zest to an otherwise plain dish.

It is a good idea to have, at hand, some easily prepared dishes to be prepared from food on the emergency shelf, when unexpected company comes. Some housewives are easily fussed and the mind refuses to function properly in the direction of food.

Keep a shoe horn handy for putting overshoes or rubbers on the little folks.

If heat refuses to come up certain registers where there is a hot-air furnace, look to see that the damper in the pipe is open and open a window in the room—the draft will push up the cold air from the pipe and it will soon warm up.

When packing shoes slip them into stockings first using the color of the stocking to match the shoes. They are easily located and are kept from injuring other things.

Red pepper tea is a good remedy for a cold. Prepare it with milk instead of water and it will not seem so fiery.

Sardines dipped in lemon juice and crumbs and fried make a pretty hot dish. Serve them in three, thrust through a lemon ring.

To clean real lace sprinkle it with French chalk and let it lie for several days under weight. Then shake it out and it will be quite clean.

A savory toast for a luncheon dish may be prepared from chicken gravy. Make nice buttered toast and cover with the gravy. Serve with a crisp salad and a cupful of cocoa and one has a good meal.

Moon and the Weather.

Modern science is unable to find any evidence that the moon affects the weather to any appreciable extent, and unable to conceive any reason why it should. "The belief in 'dry' and 'wet' moons, indicated by the position of the lunar crescent in the evening sky, and a host of other notions associating the moon with the weather are merely idle superstitions. Moonlight is sometimes said to be conducive to frost; the fact is that the moonlight nights are also clear nights, and it is the absence of clouds, not the presence of the moon, that favors the occurrence of frosts by permitting a rapid loss of heat from the earth.

Curious Weather Forecaster.

French scientists have found something to puzzle over in a mysterious bottle that is owned by a French farmer, and that is said to be an infallible weather forecaster. The bottle has been handed down from generation to generation, and is filled with what appears to be red sand and a yellow liquid. So famed has the bottle become and so reliable, that it is said farmers in the vicinity invariably consult it before starting to harvest their crops. Solid particles gather in clusters when rain is coming, and white flakes appear before the snow. The entire mixture becomes cloudy when a hail storm is coming.

Origin of "Blue Blood."

Blue blood is a translation of the Spanish "sangre azul," attributed to some of the oldest and proudest families of Castile, who claimed never to have been contaminated by Moorish, Jewish or other foreign admixture. The expression probably originated in the blueness of the veins of people of fair complexions as compared with those of dark skin.

Empire Co. Is Now League's

Fiske Company Loses Action for Injunction—Empire's City Plants Sold to Borden's.

The court action which held up the transfer of the Empire State Dairy Company to the Dairyman's League Cooperative Association, Inc., was discontinued today before Justice Hagerty in Brooklyn, and the injunction was vacated. The proceedings were begun by the F. W. Fiske Company, 120 Liberty street, New York city, which had a five-year contract, dated April 12, 1922, with the Empire State Dairy Company as sole sales agent for the company's evaporated milk, sweetened condensed milk and milk powder. It was claimed by the Fiske Company that a clause in the contract provided that the Empire State could not sell any or all of its properties without protecting its rights as agent.

The contract for the sale of the Empire State was signed on January 26. On January 31 the league agreed to sell the Empire State's six city plants and its retail milk business in the counties of Kings and Queens to Borden's Farm Products Company.

On January 31 the Fiske Company obtained an order temporarily enjoining the transfer of the Empire State's properties to the league.

The papers were served on league officers at 10:35 a. m. on February 1, thus tying up the transaction pending a final decision in the case. Now that the proceedings have been discontinued by the F. W. Fiske Company the transfers will be carried out.

In announcing that the Dairyman's League Cooperative Association, Inc., had sold the city end of the Empire State's business to Borden's Farm Products Company and would retain the fifteen country plants, President G. W. Sloeum said:

"The sale was in pursuance of the Board of Directors' policy to secure markets for all the milk of all the members every day in the year. The directors are of the opinion that they are not yet adequately prepared to enter the field of retail milk distribution in the city. The result of this whole arrangement is that the league is acquiring country plants which it needs and it has been relieved from a large capital investment necessary to own and operate the city plants, and believes that this arrangement is at the present to the best interests of farmers and consumers alike."

FEBRUARY FRESHET IN 1857; ALSO BLUEBIRDS

A Kingston man has a copy of Boyd's Kingston and Rondout Directory of 1857-8, in the memoranda for February 1857, there being written opposite the date 1857 the following: "The thaw and rain broke up the Esopus creek and caused a great freshet. Immense damage done at Saugerties. The bridge at Hurley was moved some feet down the stream at one end. Cantine's bridge was swept away, also the dam at Saugerties." Opposite the date, February 18, is written "Bluebirds made their first appearance at High Falls," and opposite the date, February 27, "The robins gathered in flocks. The steamboats ran on Rondout creek the river being open."

The Hunter's Moon.

"Hunter's Moon" was the name given to the lunation immediately following the harvest moon. Owing to the small angle that is made by this moon's orbit with the horizon, it rises like the harvest moon, at the same hour for several days. It is so called, however, not because it enables the hunter to pursue his game at night, as is generally supposed, but because the crops having been harvested in September, there is nothing to interfere with the sportsman's pleasure.

The Jovial Man.

A "jovial" character once meant the type supposed to belong to all persons who were born when the planet Jupiter was in the ascendant. They were supposed to possess more of the cheerful elements of character than others, and hence to partake of the benign qualities attributed to the father of the gods.

Tax Reduction Vexes Rep's

State Legislature—They Don't Want to Approve Smith's Plan for 25 Per Cent But Can't Find a Way to Make a Greater Slash.

Albany, Feb. 7.—Tax reduction, proving to be a hard problem for the Republican members of the legislature to solve.

Governor Smith's recommendation in his annual message that the state income tax be reduced 25 per cent has placed the Republican legislative leaders in a hole. They must either suggest better way of reducing taxes or approve the governor's plan.

It was reported at the Capitol today that the Republican majority in the assembly will approve the governor's plan providing they can devise a means of bringing about a reduction in the direct property tax. More persons spoke in opposition to the Governor's plan than those availing it at the hearing Tuesday before the assembly committee on taxation. Some of the Democratic legislators have said they believed the hearing was staged by the Republican committee in an effort to stabilize sentiment if possible, against the governor's bill.

The Republican leaders would like to cut the direct tax so as to benefit the up-state Republican farmers. The direct tax, however, depends upon the appropriations that will have to be made for the state government during the next fiscal year. If the appropriations can be kept down the Republican leaders believe they will be able to accomplish a "real reduction in taxes."

The Taylor bill, carrying out Governor Smith's recommendations for a 25 per cent reduction of the income tax is being held in the Republican committee on taxation, and probably will be until the Republican leaders have decided on what they are going to do about tax reduction.

Democratic leaders have charged that if the Republicans are sincere in their efforts to reduce taxes they could pass the Taylor bill and then work out a scheme to reduce the tax on property.

A Talk on Milk Business

The Kerhonkson branch of the Dairymen's League is extending invitations, to not only league members of the county but to every farmer making milk who is interested in the future developments of the orderly marketing of milk, to their regular annual oyster supper, which will be free this year, to be held at the hall in Accord on Saturday evening, February 16th at 6 o'clock.

After the supper Charles H. Tuck, the head of the league's educational work, will give a talk on the general situation of the milk business. The director, Chester Young, will also be there to give his views, followed by community singing led by Mr. Eppes.

This meeting will be a general county meeting and the Kerhonkson Branch is going to act as host to everybody who wants to get a fill of the right "dope" on milk, and the right kind of oyster stew.

Brazil's "Cow-Country"

Porto Alegre, Capital of Rio Grande do Sul.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)
The name "Brazil," to the average North American, conjures up a picture of coffee, tropical forests and rubber. But it is a tremendous country, this United States of the South American continent, and the usual conception takes no account of Brazil's south, and especially of Rio Grande do Sul. That state, mentioned in its patches because of the revolution which it has had on its hands, gives a different picture, and presents a Brazil into which hundreds of thousands of citizens of the United States could fit in peace times with little violence to their daily routine.

Reverse directions in comparison with the United States, and you have an explanation of the importance of Rio Grande do Sul. Brazil's North has a tropical climate; and there is the Brazilian "black belt," where live millions of negroes. The South has a temperate zone climate at its best; and Rio Grande do Sul, most distant from the equator, leads all the rest of the states in climatic agreeableness from the point of view of northern Europeans and North Americans. This has been a "white man's country" from the first, and it has been the leader in many ways in Brazilian development.

But there is a marked difference between Brazil's South and our own North. This southernmost of Brazil's states has its closest affiliations with our West, for it is a "cow country" without peer. On the 31,000 square miles of Rio Grande do Sul are more than a quarter as many cattle as in the entire United States. Water and grass are abundant, droughts are practically unknown, and the rolling country with its numerous tree-covered hills furnishes a charming and stimulating countryside in contrast to the dreary and often dry level of many of the world's great cattle-raising regions. Travelers who have visited all the leading live stock countries assert that Rio Grande do Sul's pasture lands are superior to those of Argentina, South Africa, the United States and Australia, and that here, under the Southern Cross, is the coming "cow country" of the world.

But although fortunately situated in so many respects for the raising of cattle, Rio Grande do Sul has no monopoly on the cattle industry, according to one Brazilian authority. Next to that state in the number of head of cattle is the interior state of Minas Geraes. This is the center of the dairy industry, as Rio Grande do Sul is the center of the packing, salting and leather industry.

Other Good Cattle Regions.

Most recent estimates place the number of cattle in Rio Grande do Sul at 8,400,000 head, while Minas Geraes presses the leading state with herds that number only one million head less. It is said that there is not a single state or territory of the country in which there is not some land favorable to the growing of live stock. Curiously enough the well-watered tropical states of Maranhao, Para, and Piahy share honors among the lesser producers with Geraes, a relatively arid state. But the real future of the cattle business in Brazil is believed to be in the interior states of Minas Geraes and Goyaz. There are millions of acres of fertile ideal land waiting to support great herds in these districts.

Particularly in the latter state the parallel between the American cowboy west and the Brazilian cow country is very close. There are no fences on the vast plains carpeted with succulent grass. Herds are rounded up once a year and delivered on the hoof after a journey of sixty to ninety days to the neighboring state of Sao Paulo. There they are sold to packing-house agents who fatten them for nine months before shipping them by rail to the slaughterhouses.

Until fairly recently Rio Grande do Sul's cattle were neglected by companies in search of beef to transport; and the state had to content itself with shipping millions of dollars worth of "jerked beef" and hides. Recently tremendous freezing plants have been erected, and now Brazilian beef is finding its way to the world markets in competition with that from Argentina and Australia. Since this region is somewhat closer to Europe and the United States than its competitors, the industry seems assured of a steady development.

Rio Grande do Sul is not alone a "cow country." Its soil grows to perfection the grains and vegetables and fruits of the temperate zone. There has been considerable development along these lines; and the country seems destined to prove that there can actually be a compromise in the old war between agriculture and stock raising which has raged since before the days of Abraham. In manufacturing only one state, Sao Paulo, surpasses Rio Grande do Sul. The state is the only vineyard of Brazil, producing annually 10,000,000 liters of wine.

Many Germans and Italians. Rio Grande do Sul has been more strongly affected by immigration than any other Brazilian state. For a time it seemed that it would become almost a German colony. Even now whole communities and towns and cities are predominantly German, and in them the German tongue has little competition. About 200,000 Germans live in the state, but since the total population of the commonwealth is more than 2,000,000 the German element is not dominant. Italians also have been attracted by this temperate portion of Brazil and scores of thousands of them have settled in the state.

Cattle and rubber were among the later discoveries of Brazil's agricultural treasures. With the growth of England's rubber plantations in the Malay peninsula the market for Amazon rubber from the virgin forests has faded to a mere skeleton, but the world cannot get along without Brazil's cattle plains. Sugar, cotton and subsequently coffee were the Eldoradoes of Brazil's early proprietors because of their export value. As early as 1530, however, live stock of many kinds was introduced into Bahia, where the first serious efforts at colonization were made. In 1500 Queen Catherine of Portugal personally sent cows and mares to the inhabitants. The caracou or native Brazilian stock, found principally in the interior, is the direct descendant of these early cattle sent from the continent. This type of cattle adapted itself to the plains of Brazil just as the Spanish horses adapted themselves to the plains of the American West.

Importation of other breeds of cattle has led to great mixture of breeds and dilution of pure strains, whether native or imported. In the more developed Rio Grande do Sul there are some 4,500,000 head of cattle of pure or practically pure stock. Durhams, Herefords, Angus, and Devons. Crossing of these breeds with the native Brazilian cattle is notable in Sao Paulo, the coffee state. The true Englishman considers himself an exacting connoisseur of roast beef, but an incident which is going the rounds in Brazil is a blow to this particular English pride. A certain English firm steadfastly refused to accept any shipments of beef from Brazil because nothing but the finest of blooded beef would satisfy their epicurean English customers. Assured by the Brazilian exporting firms that they could send a shipment of absolutely pure Durham beef bred in Rio Grande do Sul from imported English stock, the British firm tempted by the lower price abandoned its conservatism to the extent of ordering several thousand carcasses. By an error in the shipping department, however, the beef consigned to the British firm was directed to a German importing house and the beef intended for the latter, the product of a mixed breed of Durhams and native Brazilian cattle, was delivered to the English firm. The Brazilian firm had just had time to discover the error and was on the point of wiring apologies and offers of restitution when they received the following cable: "Your shipment of pure bred Durham beef has surpassed all expectations. Are forwarding instructions for delivery of another shipment of same."

And you will join the legions who know this new Six, that is built by Hudson, in saying it provides ideal transportation.

It continues the well known Essex qualities of economy and reliability. It adds a smoothness of performance which heretofore was exclusively Hudson's. Both are alike in all details that count for long satisfactory service at small operating cost.

Steering is like guiding a bicycle. Gears shift easily. Care of the car calls for little more than keeping it lubricated. For the most part that is done with an oil can.

Fuel economy is impressive. Oil consumption is unusually low and tire mileage surprisingly high.

The New Essex is backed by a service policy that keeps maintenance down to the minimum.

Couzens Makes New Accusation

Says Mellon's and Other Banks Pay No Taxes on Government Securities Which are Taxable When Owned by Individuals—His Holding Companies.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Feb. 7.—A fresh chapter was written today in the now famous millionaire-tax correspondence between Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Senator James Couzens, Republican, Michigan, two of the wealthiest men in the country.

Senator Couzens returned to the attack on the Mellon bill and accused the secretary of the treasury of favoring corporations to the detriment of the individual taxpayer.

"The greatest loop hole for avoiding surtaxes is the formation of holding companies," said Couzens in a letter to Mellon. "Will you agree to the proposal to tax all dividends and interest these holding companies receive on the same basis as tax individuals? Is there any reason why corporations should not pay the same income tax on their receipts? Receipts from interest on bank balances, dividends and interest on bonds as individuals do?"

"You are directing no efforts to get at the corporations, but rather are playing directly into their hands. It is estimated that you have paid banks over $100,000,000 in excessive interest rates and you did this even though the banks pay no income or corporation taxes on government securities."

"Your own bank, the Mellon National at Pittsburgh, holds nearly $400,000,000 on which it pays no taxes whatsoever. The Chase National of New York is reported to hold nearly $50,000,000. You know that individuals holding these securities would have to pay income taxes. Why do you not recommend a remedy for this discrimination?"

Senator Couzens concluded his letter by expressing his regret that Secretary Mellon has ignored his challenge to make public the extent of his wealth and how much he would save under the operation of the Mellon tax bill.

"I still hope you will conclude to do it in your own interest," said Couzens. "It would stop all this speculation as to how much you are going to save if congress adopts your plan."

While the Mellon-Couzens epistolary warfare continued, party whips began to crack in the house today as the tax reduction issue got down to the fighting stage.

Republican leaders began to count noses to determine just how many votes they can count on to support the Mellon bill, which is to be reported next week. They instructed the chairman of each delegation to poll their delegations.

The result of this order created distinct uneasiness in Republican ranks. Some Republican congressmen frankly do not want the Mellon program, but as it has been made a distinct party issue they hesitate to run counter to the White House and their party leaders. An election is only nine months away and administration help may be needed.

Ohio Republicans were among the first to fall into line with announcement of support for the Mellon bill.

Meanwhile, the Democrats are still tight and counting upon their coalition with the Republican insurgents to put their own program through.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Feb. 7.—Firmness marked trading at the opening of the stock market today, sugar and motor stocks being particularly favored.

Price movements were somewhat mixed in the foreign trading. Standard Oil of California and Pacific Oil were weak features in the oil group, the former dropping 1 1/2 to 66 and the latter over one point to 55 1/2. The balance of the oils were fractionally lower. The rails continued quiet but steady. Steel shares were firm. Motors and industrials held steady.

Curative Powers of Sun for Various Diseases

A correspondent wants to know which kind of light and what part of the light rays are capable of curing tuberculosis of bones and glands, rickets and some other diseases. As information accumulates, it becomes plain that light which benefits one disease harms another. To cite one illustration, when light is used in a certain way on bone tuberculosis, cure results. The same light, used in the same way, on a case of consumption with fever does harm. In replying to this correspondent some of the later discovered facts about light as a remedy will be made available for other readers as well.

Waves of light are measured in microns. Never mind the term; it is hard to remember. Never mind the meaning of the term; it is harder to remember. Let us designate the rays by the microns. Ordinary window glass filters out all rays shorter than the 324; therefore, when a sun bath is taken in light that has passed through glass no rickets prevention effect is had.

The light from a carbon arc lamp for purposes of cure is nearer like sunlight than any other. The vapor quartz light is fairly similar to sunlight, though it differs in some ways. About the shortest rays which reach the surface of the earth from the sun are the 290. Therefore, on a clear, bright day with no fog, cloud or smoke, the sun rays between 290 and 324 are curative. On a foggy day, or one in which the air is filled with clouds, no rays less than 324 reach the surface of the earth.

White clothing keeps most of the 324 rays and shorter from reaching the skin. It does not filter out all of them. Black clothes remove more than white ones. Experiments with clothing of different colors indicate that reds neutralize some of the good effects of the short rays. The last word in science may knock red underwear into a cocked hat. On the other hand, the last word in science may prove that, while wearing red underwear may promote rickets, it may cure some other disease.—Minneapolis Journal.

Watchful Waiting

"I think that children are not as observing as they should be," said the inspector to the teacher.

"I hadn't noticed it," replied the teacher.

"Some one give me a number," "Thirty-seven," said a little boy, eagerly.

The inspector wrote 73 on the board, and nothing was said.

"Will some one else give me a number?" "Fifty-two," said another lad.

The inspector wrote down 25 on the board and smiled at the teacher.

He called for another number and Jack called out: "Seventy-seven. Now see if you can change that."

Plane in Lighthouse Work

The United States lighthouse service has just found the airplane a present help in time of trouble. It was recently decided that, in the cause of better navigation, a beacon should be placed on Kauai rock, the top of an old crater, which juts out of the ocean about twenty miles from the island of Niihau, Hawaii. The rock presented sheer cliffs on all sides and was surrounded by open seas so that nobody could land on it to locate the best place for the light. Naval aviators in a seaplane, however, flew over the rock and took photographs which will enable the lighthouse experts to determine the best place to attempt a landing and place the beacon.

New Alloy for Tool Steel

It was during the war that there was discovered in England a new alloy for tool steel. The shortage of tungsten, it appears, caused the manufacturers to seek a substitute. The up-to-date steel is a Sheffield product, high in chrome and cobalt. It comes to this country in pigs. A firm here melts the pigs and casts the metal in the form desired, in molds that allow for shrinkage, as in the case of soft steel. The customer then machines the tools to the dimensions that he desires. The alloy comes in blanking, drawing and forming dies, hot and cold trimmers for forge work, milling cutters, counter sinks, slotting saws and banding rolls.

Traces Ship's Course

Disasters like that which befell the American destroyer squadron on the Pacific coast recently will be made impossible, it is asserted, by a new course tracer, called the autigraph, invented by Lieut. Alfred Baule, of the French navy.

The instrument is said to indicate instantly, without need for any calculation, the position of the ship on the chart, the possible error not exceeding one-fiftieth-hundredth of a degree.

Lieutenant Baule has also invented a device which records the ship's speed, much as a speedometer does on an automobile. This has been adopted by the French navy.

If all the material carried by the Mississippi river to the gulf in one year were placed on one square mile it would be nearly 270 feet high.

KINGSTON, N. Y.Who Are the "Broadcasters"?And What Are They Talking About
Excites Curiosity of Hurleyites
Since Magazine Has Broadcasted a Hurley Scene.

Old Hurley, which was put on the map in the days of the War of the Revolution when the Dutch residents of Kingston were compelled to flee to that hamlet, when the British burned all the buildings here excepting the Van Steenburgh house on Wall street, and later became known by reason of the making of the best potcheese in the country, being jocularly referred to as having "potcheese mines," is again in the limelight.

Hurley, which is virtually a suburb of Kingston, and therefore far from being a rural section, although farming is carried on there, with great success, has of recent years become a popular summer resort, and the residents are up-to-date and it takes things considerably out of the ordinary to get them excited. But something has happened, and that only this week to put the residents on their toes, especially the women folk, and that something is a picture in a weekly pictorial comic magazine called "Life." The "Broadcasting" number of "Life" dated February 7, contains a reproduction of a scene in which there is depicted four women standing in front of a stone building with a gable roof and dormer windows, there being a sign on the building on which is inscribed "Post Office, Hurley, N. Y." and near the building stand two milk cans. The women appear to be in earnest conversation as if discussing some very interesting topic. It is the work of Anton Otto Fischer, the well-known artist, who resides on Albany avenue, and is a fine piece of work. Although the Hurley people greatly admire the work of Artist Fischer they are very anxious to know who the women depicted are especially as under the picture is printed one word only, that being "Broadcasting." When the news spread to Hurley about "Life" printing the picture a demand for copies at once set in and automobiles were speeded to this city and every available copy was purchased of O'Reilly, E. Winter's Sons, Forsyth & Davis and at the hotel news stands and taken home. Just now, as before stated, the people of Old Hurley are somewhat excited, especially the women, who are anxious to know and are trying to figure out who the four women are who are pictured above the line "Broadcasting."

The Old Savannah.

The Savannah was the first steamer to cross the Atlantic. On May 24, 1819, she left Savannah for Liverpool, which port was reached in 27 days; 90 hours of which time she was operated by steam power. The vessel was first constructed as a sailing packet, but an auxiliary engine and boiler with paddle-wheels were fitted before she was placed in service.

PARAGUAY IS HAVEN
OF HUMAN DERELICTSCountry Favorite Refuge for Other Nations' Exiles.

Paraguay has long been a favorite refuge for men from other climes who for one reason or another felt better with many miles between them and their native countries. In the following examples it would obviously have been unkind to give too definite details.

In a village not far from Asuncion lives a baron from one of the oldest and noblest houses of Prussia. On the wall of his mud-floored hut hangs an affectionately autographed photograph of Wilhelm II. The baron, like his Paraguayan wife and brood of children, goes barefoot habitually, yet clings to a monocle, last remnant of his vanished splendor.

Working on an isolated cattle camp is the brother of the royal equestrian of a Scandinavian king. His story includes a duel with a semiroyal scion over the affections of a girl. Of his Vikinglike strength and beauty, can, native run, is slowly robbing him.

An American former cowboy has been more fortunate. He claims to have once been a member of the Texas Rangers, but it is commonly thought he had been "about two jumps ahead of the Rangers." At any rate Paraguay seems to agree with his health, and his knowledge of the cattle game and lightning ability with a Colt .45 have stood him in good stead.

At the end of the American Civil war certain irreconcilables from the south migrated to Latin America rather than accept defeat. One man, prominent in the Confederate navy—his family name has been given to a town, a county and a college in North Carolina—settled in Paraguay. Late in life he married a Paraguayan girl, and his son, now a grown man, can barely speak English. "Poor derelicts! What brave ships you once were! What storm seas you sailed! May your battered hulks rest quietly on the peaceful sands where at last you have stranded!"—Adventure Magazine.

Your Optic Camera

When you look through a magnifying glass or a telescope you must focus it by moving it around in some way. This is done so that the lens in the instrument will give a clear, distinct image.

The most wonderful lens in the world, the lens of the human eye, has a different method of conveying sharp images to you. This lens, instead of moving back and forth, gets fatter and slimmer in order to make the image clear.

When the lens catches the image it is flashed through to a sort of screen in the retina of the eye and it touches a lot of nerve ends. The lens in the eye actually turns the picture of objects upside down when it throws them on the screen of the retina. The image is also very tiny. The brain turns things right side up again and gives them their true size, which we see. If either the eye or the brain gets diseased, people see many strange objects which actually do not exist. The whole eye is built very much like a camera, only it is a better piece of machinery than the finest camera ever made.

Tunnel in Dispute

New Zealand has aroused controversy by declaring that its new Otira tunnel, which pierces the Southern Alps of New Zealand for a distance of five and one third miles, is the longest in the British empire.

Londoners retort that their Piccadilly tube runs for about eight miles, from Baron's court to Finsbury park. They also point out, further, that the Central London railway stays under ground for seven miles, between Liverpool street station and Wood Lane, and that the Bakerloo and Hampstead tubes have continuous tunnels for more than six miles.

The most important tunnel in the British Isles is that beneath the River Severn, joining Bristol with South Wales. It is four miles long.—New York Times

RETIRES AFTER 50 YEARS AT SEA

Veteran Captain of Liner Tells of His Many Adventures on the Deep.

New York.—When a man has sailed the seven seas for 50 years and decides to settle down, it is difficult for him to decide what he would like to do. That is the problem confronting Captain Adrian Zeeder; he has just handed over the helm of the Manchuria to younger hands, and he need no longer rise at two bells to go on deck and see what the weather is doing.

If one did not have the captain's own word for it, one would suspect that this seaman of the old school was in the grip of the wanderlust. He sailed the other day for England and will go from there to the South African home, where he was born. Then he is coming back again, and after that—well, as the captain says, something may turn up.

For one thing, he hopes to make an excursion through the Mediterranean. In all his 50 years of circumnavigating the globe he has visited almost all ports and lands except those bordering on the blue strip of water between Africa and Europe. "I never happened that way," he said. "A man wouldn't you know, unless he was on one of the regular runs to India or out through from the East. I never sailed that way; just crossed the Mediterranean, you might say. But I guess I have seen all the other seas between the two poles."

"Shipwrecked? No, I never was shipwrecked, either. But I've been mighty close to it many times. Once we were down in Cook's straits, between the two islands of New Zealand, and it was blowing like the d—, I mean it was blowing almighty hard. The weather was thick, too, and I never saw the sea toss a ship about the way it did ours that day; first we were up, and then down two thousand feet, and with every heave I thought we should break in half. Somehow our old timbers held together, and we made port, we were mighty thankful, I can tell you."

On Sailor's Luck. "We had luck that day. No man should go to sea unless he is lucky. It takes a lot of luck to get along. If it isn't on your side you are soon foundered. Why, I have seen a thousand times that I'd have gone down sure without the luck. Somehow it always turned my way, and here I am, feeling as good as new. But I've made my last cruise; 50 years is enough. I've lived in ships since I was a boy in knee breeches; now I want to go ashore for a while and see how the people live on dry land."

The philosophers say that men are ruled by opposites. That rule would seem to hold good with Captain Zeeder. His idea of a comfortable life is to sit in a big armchair at one of those spacious club windows such as you see in Fifth avenue, with nothing to do but watch the crowd go by. He has always been a clubman when he could be, in all parts of the world, belonging to dozens of social organizations, and every trip to sea has ended in a vision of getting back to the club for a quiet hour in a big, stuffed chair.

Of course, the Captain doesn't tell you all that. One reads it between the lines. But he does talk entertainingly about the sea, which he knows as some of us know our street. And when he gets into the swing of a yarn he takes his visitor along. Still he says that he cannot see why anybody should be interested in him, just a plain seafarer.

"No, the sea is not as it used to be," he said. "Mighty different from the days when I was a boy. The sailor of today lives in a bloomin' boudoir and has somebody to wait upon him. I didn't start out like that. No, sir, in my day before the mast it was mighty different. And we had sailors then, you can lay your last quid; men who could take a ship through a gale that would tear the heart out of some. Nowadays—" and the Captain waved his hand expressively.

Heard the Call Early. "I first got the smell of the sea in my nose when I was just a shaver," he said. "We lived about four miles outside Cape Town, and I would sneak away to go and look at the ships. Most of my school days were spent somewhere else than in school. I couldn't bear the sight of a spelling book. Sort of went to my head and made me long to run away. By the time I was nine or ten I knew the coasting and shipping craft that put into Cape Town. I used to go down to the docks and sit there for hours, just watching the boats. Once I went aboard and that ruined me. Since that moment I never have felt at home anywhere else."

"I couldn't have been more than nine or ten when I began to go off with the fishing boats. You can imagine how my mother felt about it. She used to cry a lot and say that I shouldn't run away to sea. I promised her that I wouldn't, and I didn't. Nevertheless I went when I was about eleven, and she consented. I was a mighty proud chap when I signed on the old Lord MacDuff as a sort of cabin boy and extra hand. We had a hard skipper, one of those iron men you've read about in the books, but a fine sailor. He dipped his bread in his punch to soften it. And punch was needed to break it."

"Put yourself in my place and you will get some idea of how that life went with me at first. I was a sturdy youngster and the feel of the sea made me happy. But I had been raised in a good home, where we had plenty of everything. And my first days on shipboard were lean-bellied days. The food was bad and not much of it. Many a night—before I learned how to go hungry—I have taken a piece of hard bread with the weevils in it and gone to the grease barrel, intending to skim up a bit of the grease and swallow the whole business before I got a whiff of it. But I always smelled the grease first and never quite made it."

Modern Tars Have Malda.

"Yes, those were hard days, but happy ones, too, the happiest of my life, I think. When a fellow was off watch he could lie in a sunny corner, his head on a coil of rope, and watch the clouds go by. Nothing to do until the Captain kicked you up for the next watch. And what a joy it was for a boy to lie there, hearing the lap of the sea against the bow, with the roll of the Atlantic to rock you, like a baby, in her arms. Yes, those were the happy times; no responsibility, no thought of the future, just a boy getting his first scent of the sea. Of course, it wasn't so pleasant to be hungry, but one got accustomed to that after a while, and it was the rule to be empty rather than full. We tightened our belts a notch and thought what a devil that Captain was. He was a hard skipper, a mighty hard one—but a fine sailor."

The Captain smiled, as if being a fine sailor made up for all shortcomings. "Sometimes I hear people say that life at sea is hard," he ruminated. "Well, they should have sailed in one of those old ships I knew 50 years ago. They would have learned something about life. The first time I landed in New York, back in '78, I was barefoot and bareheaded, like most sailors of the time. I walked up Broadway in my naked feet and nobody paid any attention to me."

"This was quite a city, even then. Beyond Madison Square the country was open fields, and most activities stopped at Union Square. The waterfront was a lively place then; a policeman would hardly dare show his head after dark when the men were lively."

Master at Twenty-Four. "Oh, yes, all hands drank when they came ashore, and they had a big time. And why shouldn't they? After a ship's company had been months at sea on hard tuck, salt beef and tea, they needed something different. But nowadays all that has changed. Sailor men will soon need ladies' maids to wait on 'em and butlers to pour their bloomin' tea. No, the sea isn't what it used to be, my lad, and you can lay a quid on that."

But Captain Zeeder steers a course learned on the decks of 300-ton brigs. Captain Zeeder had sailed in ships of many sorts and put into many ports before the age when most boys are getting ready for college. A ship of 2,500 tons was a good-sized craft for those days. He has crossed the Atlantic in a mere cockle-shell of 300 tons. Before twenty he was fourth officer, hailing out of London, and by degrees he worked his way upward to a captain's certificate. He had his master's papers at twenty-four, but did not get a full command until some time later. For 28 years he sailed out of San Francisco. More recently he won distinction for transporting troops across the Atlantic.

From Sails to Oil. "I have seen the sea turn from sails to steam, and now they say all ships will be driven by oil," he said. "Well, I wouldn't be surprised. I can remember when bold prophets said that most ships would be run by steam, and people laughed at them. But I have seen that come about. Maybe the oil-burner will do away with coal before long, and a blessing that will be to the lads in the stoke-hole. There never was more agony on this earth than in the firing room of a ship. Oil would be a blessing to the men down there. I hear it said that we may even have electric ships, or perhaps we shall do all our sailing by air. Who knows? But for my part, I like to spread a sheet and run with the wind."

Zeeder is past sixty now, and looks forty-five. He has a wind-burned and sun-burned face and his mouth clamps tight at the corners. Every inch of his six feet conveys power. And best of all, he walks as a sailor should, with a bit of a roll to starboard, then back again. Since big ships became the rule of the seas, leviathans that ride out the roughest weather, we are in danger of losing the seamanly roll that once marked the race of sailors. In this mechanical age they walk like ordinary men, not as descendants of the Vikings should.

Free Now for Adventure. The Captain comes of old South African Dutch stock, the race of men whom Conan Doyle once called "the most virile enemy England ever crossed swords with." And one cannot but wonder how he is going to expend all the energy that ruled him to the bridge. "I couldn't farm," he confided. "Didn't do much of it as a boy and I am too old now to learn. And I couldn't be a clerk, because I never was smart at figures. They would not let me sit around the old home out in South Africa, and I am afraid I would be unable to stand it, anyhow. So I shall have to find some kind of a job and keep myself busy."

The listener more than half expects him to say that he will knock around and see the world a bit, but it doesn't seem quite fair to suggest it. The look in the Captain's eyes, even though he keeps the admission to himself, it would not take much persuasion for him to go adventuring again, just as he did half a century ago in the old Lord MacDuff.

Where Modesty Doesn't Fit

Modesty is one of the most admired of human traits in an individual, and yet it is a regrettable fact that in advertising modesty is seldom effective. A good advertising page must say: "Hey, there, just look at me!"—Fred Kelly in the Nation's Business.

A Story of Success

How Studebaker Cars became leaders

145,000 people last year paid $200,000,000 for them

THE most talked-about cars among fine cars are the Studebaker Sixes—at $975 and up. Sales have almost trebled in the past three years. The demand for these cars, growing by leaps and bounds, has been Motordom's chief sensation. Over $200,000,000 was last year spent for Studebaker models. Now we wish to explain, to all who are interested, the reasons for that success.

Studebaker has always led

For 72 years the name Studebaker has stood for quality and class. Studebaker equipages, in the carriage days, held premier place. The White House owned them in the days of Grant and Harrison. Now we make motor cars only. But the Studebaker name, in this modern field, simply had to maintain its prestige.

We had the money, we had the incentive—we who now control. And our one ambition has been to maintain the Studebaker place.

$90,000,000 assets behind us

Studebaker assets are $90,000,000. We have $50,000,000 in modern plants and equipment. Not old plants re-adapted. We have spent $32,000,000 in new plants in five years. We have equipped them with 12,500 up-to-date machines.

Over $8,000,000 was spent on drop forge plants alone. Another $10,000,000 on body plants, to maintain our prestige in coach building.

We believe that no other plant in the country is so well equipped to build quality cars as Studebaker.

Engineering—$500,000 yearly

We created an engineering department which costs $500,000 yearly. There are 125 skilled men there who devote their time to studying betterments in cars. They make 500,000 tests yearly.

There is a department of Methods and Standards. They decide and fix every standard in these cars.

We spend $600,000 yearly to machine all surfaces of crank shafts, just as in Liberty Airplane Motors. That is the reason for that perfect balance, that absence of vibration.

Every Studebaker car is Timken-equipped. The Special-Six and the Big-Six have more Timken bearings than any car selling under $5,600 in America. The Light-Six more than any competitive car within $1,000 of its price.

Open cars have real leather upholstery. They cost $25 more per car than imitation leather.

Our closed cars have Chase Mohair upholstery. This is made from the soft fleece of Angora goats. And a Sedan requires from 15 to 18 yards.

Velour for this upholstery would save us up to $100 per car.

Note the finish of every detail. Mark the infinite care. They add 25% to labor cost on luxurious closed bodies.

Note the completeness of our larger closed cars. The nickel-plated bumpers, the extra disc wheels and cord tires, the steel trunk, the courtesy light, etc. Think, what they would cost you, bought as extras.

Thus we have made the Studebaker the leader of quality cars. We have built a demand exceeding 145,000 cars per year.

Learn the results of these efforts, in fairness to yourself. Don't buy a car at $1,000 or over without knowing what we offer.

Compare the parts and details. Mark the advantages we offer—scores on scores. Our experience is that 95% of those who do that buy a Studebaker car.

Our factories employ 1,200 inspectors, to make 30,000 inspections on all Studebakers cars. Few flaws, few mistakes can escape them. That, we believe, is the finest organization ever devoted to motor car building.

The price of quality

On some steel alloys for vital parts we pay 15% extra to get them exact.

K. H. S. to Play Poughkeepsie

Tomorrow afternoon the local high school quintet plays Poughkeepsie High School at the high school gym. This will be the second game that the locals play against Poughkeepsie. The first game was played at Poughkeepsie and was won by a few points only. This time the locals are going to try to win by a larger score. If comparing scores can be taken for authority, the locals should win easily. A few days ago, Newburgh beat Poughkeepsie 19 to 18. A few days before that the locals beat Newburgh 27 to 11.

The local team has practised twice this week and is showing up well. Everyone is in fine shape for the game, except Corrigan, who practised yesterday but who may not be able to play. Coach Anderson will probably start the following lineup: Captain Schmidt and Merino, forwards; Vogt, center; McLane and Stock or Buchholz, guards.

Morgenweckers Drub Yonkers

Stevenson Plays Wonderful Floor Game With Doc Newman and Powers Getting the Scoring Honors.—Two Games Here Next Week. Manager Ryan's Yonkers aggregation of ball bouncers went bad Wednesday evening in the contest at the local armory court. The Kingston quintet romped away to a 26 to 21 victory in the top fashion.

Soup Campbell and McNichol did not help in Wednesday night's win as they were among the missing. But Stevenson and Doc Newman were present and it is doubtful if the first two mentioned could have made a better showing. In having these two last players on his eligible list, to be used when needed, Morgenweck was surely farsighted.

Stevenson playing in a forward position only had one marker to his credit, but his floor work and passing were the outstanding features of the struggle. Newman, playing in a guard position, besides holding Norman scoreless from the field, made himself live pretty baskets from the playground. Powers was the leading scorer with 11 points.

During the first half the visitors were kept from scoring from the field and it wasn't because of their poor shots entirely, but very few times did they have the ball in their possession. At the end of the opening round the score was in the locals' favor, 21 to 8.

In the closing period the downriver team played somewhat better, but far from what was expected of them. In this period they caged three two-timers and seven from the complimentary line.

Jack Murray was the referee and was kept very busy blowing his whistle. A total of 57 fouls were called, 28 on the Morgenweck squad and 29 on the visiting outfit. Kingston was very poor from the foul line, caging but 12 baskets, while Yonkers made 15. Malone made 8 fouls and one field for a total of 10 points.

Garland played Carl Husta and stuck fast all evening, keeping the local forward down to but one field. In the closing minutes of play M. Husta replaced his brother in front.

The remarkable playing of Stevenson is further proof that a good floor man is probably the biggest asset to a basketball quintet. If the local players go as big in the coming games as they looked last evening a prominent place in league standing can be looked forward to by the end of the season.

It was announced last evening that two games would be played on the local court next week. On Wednesday evening the Trenton team will furnish the opposition and on Saturday night, February 16, the Greenpoint team will be here. This will be the first time this season for two league games to be played here in the same week.

GOSHEN LOSES RACES ON "BIG TIME" DUE TO CONDITION OF TRACK

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Cleveland, Feb. 7.—There will be no Grand Circuit racing at Goshen, N. Y., this year, it was announced by Win H. Kinnam, secretary of the Grand Circuit last night. The announcement followed receipt of a communication from Averill Harriman, head of the Goshen association, declaring that it is impossible to get the track into condition in time. The association, however, will go ahead with its plans in order to have everything in readiness for a meeting in 1925, Mr. Kinnam added.

As a result, the week of August 18, allotted to the Goshen management, will be taken over by the North Randall management, which will conduct a nine day meeting, starting August 11, as per schedule.

Trenton Leads Met. League

With Paterson and Kingston Not Far Behind—Stringent Measures For Remaining Games—Meehan Suspended and Others Fined.

With the middle of the second half just about completed, Trenton has a slender hold on first place, but the entire six clubs are so closely bunched, the entire complexion may be changed any week. Paterson provided the big surprise last week by losing a close one at Yonkers and then following up with a sensational victory over Greenpoint at the latter's court in a double overtime contest. As the Northsiders had been waxing strong on a small sized winning streak of their own, Paterson was compelled to show more than its best to take the Knights into camp.

Trenton won its only game with Yonkers, while Kingston and Brooklyn divided their pair.

Providing competition that has been unexcelled in the annals of the game during the past twenty years, the remaining games in the Metropolitan League season are of so important an aspect that stringent measures are being adopted by the officials to further insure the fair playing of each remaining game. Because of the partisanship of the fans of the circuit, some of the over enthusiastic have deemed it necessary to wander on the courts after some brilliant playing and express their delight to their particular favorites. This is a serious infraction of the rules and will be immediately curbed, so that the record of the league for the season to date in having no games protested will be carried through to the end of the half.

Stretch Meehan of Trenton has been indefinitely suspended by President O'Brien for jumping his contract, and Joe Dreyfus of Paterson and Charlie Powers of Kingston fined $10 each for rough playing at Paterson a week ago.

Adams Buys Cottage.

Claude Adams of the Y. M. C. A. has purchased through Real Estate Broker George W. Moore, 562 Broadway, the Parker residence on Ten Broeck avenue. Mr. Adams intends making considerable improvement to the place, after which he will make his future home there.

Value of Mastication.

A good way to form the habit of thorough mastication is to begin each meal with a small quantity of very dry food. In most cases mastication is a help to digestion. The only circumstances under which it is not advisable to prolong the mastication are where there is an excess of the digestive acids in the stomach or where there is pain after eating solid foods.

Stiff Opposition for St. Mary's

In the two games to be played at the St. Mary's court Friday evening, between the big St. Mary's team and the Studebakers of Allaben and in the preliminary contest between the junior Saints and the fast Battery 1 quintet, much interest is being shown.

In the main attraction Doc Long's boys will meet worthy opponents in the team representing Allaben. St. Mary's hold a win over the automobile named team and an interesting match is expected.

In the preliminary game after Friday evening will be known which is the better team. This is the much mooted in junior circles and the contest promises to be a whirlwind.

FRICTION IN NEW BOXING "COMMISSION" OVER MULDOON

He'll Be Boss or Nothing, He Says And Walks Out.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, Feb. 7.—Just when it appears as if everything was serene in boxing circles and that the future which may have killed the game in this state had passed, another dark cloud appeared on the horizon and friction is evident among those who control the sport.

William Muldoon, former champion of the board, who was reappointed a member recently by Governor Smith, is the bone of contention. As the story goes the rounds of boxing circles Muldoon who was erstwhile czar of the board, does not take kindly to being relegated to a minor position in deciding the destinies of the boxing game. Rumor has it that the former czar attended Tuesday's meeting of the board fully expecting that he would be elected to his former position as generalissimo. But he reckoned not on the other two members of the board George Brower and James Farley.

These two gentlemen had other ideas than making themselves subordinate to Muldoon in rulings of the board, so the report goes Brower and Farley informed Muldoon that Brower was to be elected chairman of the board. Muldoon could not see it that way. He intimated to his fellow members, according to the rumblings that came from the meeting that he, Muldoon, was to be the chairman and that if he was not given the post he would not serve on the board at all.

But his wrath fell on deaf ears. Brower and Farley refused to budge from their stand. And Muldoon after delivering his ultimatum left the meeting in a huff.

The Wisent Near Destruction.

The wisent is threatened with extinction. There are no herds of this European bison left and only about 50 head scattered widely in zoological gardens and preserves. Plans have been proposed in Germany to get some of these animals together and start breeding them. The success of the United States and Canada in bringing back the buffalo, encourages old world zoologists to think that the same methods used with our bison will be effective with theirs.
